ABOUT THE CLINIC

The Department of Gastroenterology and Hepatology at Sahlgrenska University Hospital is one of the largest in the Nordic region. The department provides both emergency and scheduled outpatient care and works in close collaboration with several other specialist departments, including upper and lower gastrointestinal surgery and transplantation surgery.

The department is organised into specialised teams focusing on hepatology outpatient care, gastroenterology outpatient care, endoscopy, intestinal failure and inpatient care. It has a high patient volume and offers extensive opportunities for both advanced clinical work and professional development. Research, education and continuous development are important parts of the department's work. Employees are encouraged to take an active role in research activities, quality improvement, clinical development and change initiatives, while also having opportunities to develop professionally according to their individual interests, strengths and career goals.

The department offers a highly specialised and collaborative working environment, where physicians work within subspecialty teams and in close cooperation with the liver transplantation unit and other disciplines to provide high-quality care for patients with complex gastroenterological and hepatological conditions.

Göteborg Sweden

Göteborg (Göteborg), Sweden's second-biggest city, combines vibrant urbanity, a friendly vibe, and seaside charm. It also has culinary prowess and a world-class craft beer scene. It is the city with the longest summers in Sweden.

The city is located on the west coast, of southwestern Sweden, about halfway between the capitals of Copenhagen, Denmark, and Oslo, Norway. It has a city pulse with nature on its doorstep. It's known for its friendly locals, and no wonder – living in such a characterful town right by the sea would make anyone cheerful and welcoming. Its port is the largest in the Nordic region.

Nature lovers will find solace in Göteborg's abundant green spaces and natural beauty. The city is surrounded by a breathtaking archipelago comprised of numerous picturesque islands, offering tranquillity and serenity just a short ferry ride away. Slottsskogen, a sprawling park within the city, invites visitors to explore its lush forests and meadows and encounter native wildlife. It's the perfect place to relax, picnic, or take a leisurely stroll.

Göteborg's friendly and welcoming atmosphere is evident in the warm smiles of its inhabitants. The locals take pride in their city and are known for their hospitality, creating an inviting ambience for visitors. The city's commitment to sustainability is also notable, with an emphasis on efficient public transportation, extensive green spaces, and initiatives to reduce carbon emissions.
